This is Va Pu's first and the foremost novel, it was felicitated by Maharashtra State Award. Babi, the heroine of the novel presents the hardest philosophy of life in simplest yet the most effective way. This is a very cherishable experience. Everyone of us must go through it. The subject of this novel is not a new one, it is much tried earlier by many authors, yet the novelty lies in the presentation. Va Pu has given a perfect justice to the subject. This novel starts as a love story where both the hero and heroine cross the limits and experience ecstasy before marriage. Later on events take place in such a manner that she gives birth to their child without his support and further raises the child, when he refuses to accept the child and to marry her she pulls on all by herself. This is the story of her struggle and more than that the truth that she faces alone, with courage, without bothering for the so called recognised norms of the society. She gets support from a few like her, who respect the truth more than anything. She raises her child keeping faith only on the truth, but what is her future? What is the future of her child? What does she achieve at the end? The answers to all these questions are woven beautifully along with the philosophy of life and the nakedness of human minds. As the title suggests, we come to the conclusion that after all everyone is alone in this universe. We come alone, we leave alone, still during our stay over here we try to console our mind with some company, isn't it?
